AA Mineral Specimens Newsletter

10th August 2008

Dear Dave Barthelmy

We've had a pretty quiet week, but we've managed to load some very good pieces onto our site as you will see below. The first item - a display sample of cubic pyrite crystals from Spain is a good example.

We have a couple of very attractive specimens of emerald in matrix and a quite large specimen of crystalline Stannite. The Tennantite on quartz will also display well. The last specimen on our newsletter this week - the Malachite after Azurite features a very well formed and large crystal.

We are again featuring some of our back list this week. The Carrollite is quite a striking specimen. The Chalcantite is one of a few that we have from the Planet Mine, Arizona. And the Kutnohorite is one of Susan's favorites. The Pyrite and Selenite is a specimen that you can look at over and over again, admiring the delicacy of the selenite and the detail of the piece.

We hope you like our offerings this week.

All the best,

Susan and Bruce
